

Per Jonsson

Chief Executive Officer (CEO)

Per Jonsson is the CEO of Cordys. He oversees all global operations of the company, including sales, marketing, development, finance and services. He also serves on the Cordys' Board of Directors. With more than 20 years of senior management experience, he has a formidable track record in transforming and growing established, as well as startup businesses.

Per is a Swedish national who spent 16 years with GE in various roles. He moved from sales and marketing roles into general management roles in Europe, the USA, and Russia. He has extensive experience of buying and selling businesses, integrating them successfully, and delivering value through strategic change.

Prior to becoming CEO of Cordys, Per served as Chief Executive at Cosalt PLC, a leading provider of safety and protection equipment and services to the marine and offshore industries. Previous to that he was the Chief Executive of Patientline PLC, a provider of bedside entertainment and communications in hospitals. As CEO of two publicly traded companies in the UK, Per gained extensive experience in dealing with analysts and the investor community.

Per is a Captain in the Swedish Royal Navy Reserve after having served for three years prior to university studies. He got a Master of Science degree in Engineering Physics from the Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm and a Master of Business Administration from the prestigious INSEAD business school in Fontainebleau, France.

Highlights

- 20 years of executive management experience
- General Management positions at General Electric (GE)
- CEO of two publicly traded companies in UK
- MBA from INSEAD, Fontainebleau, France